We offer a full MEP design and build service for our clients using the most innovative and energy efficient products to provide state-of-the-art installations which save both time and cost throughout the construction phase and provide a cost effective and maintainable product to our clients.

Sub-Contractor Management

Construction and other industrial projects feature a tightly connected web of inter-dependant parties who work together and rely on each other to deliver projects on time, on budget and safely. Because of this, managing other parties can often be almost as important as managing your own workers and teams. If a contractor can't manage their subcontractors properly, then their projects will inevitably suffer.

Subcontractor management processes which are improvised and changed for every project become messy, and a lot of time is wasted sorting out manual processes and manual communication methods. Creating uniform processes and procedures for all of your subcontractors and all of your projects greatly reduces variation and unknowns which in turn reduces risk.

The subcontractor management process can be roughly divided into four distinct phases: The pre-award phase centres primarily upon identifying the needs of a project and locating individuals capable of delivering those needs

1. The award phase involves qualifying and procuring the actual contract, along with establishing basic criteria for project work, such as safety standards
2. The post-award phase centres around monitoring compliance by subcontractors and maintaining ongoing communication
3. The close-out phase focuses on validating that all agreed-upon responsibilities have been adequately delivered by the hired subcontractor.
